

Professional Experience

Jason Knox have worked in the Healthcare for past 19 years. During that time, I have developed a broad knowledge and understanding of the industry.

I commenced my career working as an Intensive Critical Care Nurse Specialist in Australia and the UK for 5 years. Since then I have spent the following 15 years working for GAMBRO Renal and Baxter Health Care. I have held positions in Sales, Clinical Consulting, as Product Manager & Marketing and Business Development & Exploratory Lead in local, regional and global positions.

I am currently the Global Product Strategy & Innovation Lead for the Acute Therapies Global Business Unit. This cross functional role works closely with R&D Innovation, Medical, RA and Business Development teams on future product development to meet the needs of the patients and customer.

This role has allowed me to capture the needs of the internal and external customers, validating them with market research and incorporating them into the development of new products from user needs, concepts to product launches.
